DESCRIPTION:

This route begins with the departure from the Brač Airport and a flight over the beautiful beach Zlatni rat near Bol, one of the most famous Croatian beaches, heading towards the island Hvar.

The flight continues to Vrboska, one of the most picturesque villages on the island of Hvar, and soon by flying over the towns of Jelsa and Starigrad.

A scene that awaits travelers is the view of the castle Tvrđalj, the summer residence of Petar Hektorović, with a sea-water fishpool and a tower with a dovecote.

After that, the flight continues to the town of Hvar, the administrative center of the island and one of the world-famous tourist destinations. Above the city is an observatory, used for both tourist and scientific purposes.

The flight continues by crossing the Hvar Channel towards the island of Šolta with untouchable high cliffs that flow into the sea on the south side of the island and several old fishing villages located in bays on the north side of the island, such as the romantic Stomorska.

The flight ends by flying over the city of Split and turning back across the Brač Channel in the direction of Supetar, the administrative center of the island of Brač.
